

Bill Elkington

Managing Member, Mind IC

Bill has been an intellectual capital management evangelist in three Fortune 500 companies, a startup, and most recently in his own consulting company, Mind IC LLC, which is described here: <https://mindicllc.com>.

His focus has been on creating, uncovering, protecting, and extracting value from a company's intellectual assets. He has expertise in various areas of intellectual capital management, including business management leadership, rights valuation, rights strategy, public policy, enterprise policy and process, transactions, business partner relationship management, patent protection, and change management across the enterprise.

He is a former president and chair of the Licensing Executives Society (USA and Canada), chair of LES Standards, member of the Section 813 Panel (a government/industry panel constituted under authority of the 2016 NDAA to make recommendations on intellectual capital management laws and regulations in DOD procurement), and member of the Aerospace Industries Association IP Committee. Bill's recently published book is titled, Mind IC: Notes on Intellectual Capital Management. He can be reached at: bill.mindic@outlook.com.
